- We use unit tests to test the functionality of code.
- We wrote mock objects to create tests prior to implementation, so that we can understand the behaviour of the objects better.
- We also wrote tests during developments to increase code coverage, test new objects, and test new behaviours in objects.